All judges' decisions are final. I/we understand that we will not receive any verbal or written evaluation, critical response or other feedback on my/our screenplay from entering the competition.

Incomplete or late entries will be disqualified.

My/our entry has not been sold, currently under option, in active negotiations for sale, or otherwise encumbered in any way. I/we hold clear legal rights to our submitted screenplay. I/we understand that failure to meet the full requirements will result in my/our immediate disqualification.

Under no circumstances will any substitutions, revisions, insertions and/ or corrections of my/our entry(ies) be allowed following submission to the competition.

No submission materials will be returned and will be destroyed after the conclusion of the competition.

Should I/we be chosen as a cash prize winner(s), I/we agree to sign a general release and complete a W-9 tax form in order to receive the described winnings within.

Collaborative works by two writers are eligible, but not by three or more writers. In the event of entries by two authors, both writers must sign the Submission/ Release form. One collaborator must be designated as the primary writer who, in the event of winning, will receive the prize money. It is the primary writer's responsibility to share the prize money with their collaborator.

I/we acknowledge that The Scriptwriters Network (SWN) has no obligation to compensate me/us in any way other than the prize money indicated in the competition rules.

I/we understand that the SWN has no further obligation to me/us as set forth in this form and the competition rules, and that no other obligations exist now or in the future, or shall be deemed to exist.

I/we agree and understand that no implied or expressed confidential collaborative, business or fiduciary relationship exists between me/us and the SWN or the competition organizers, and no such relationship is established or implied by entering this competition.

In exchange for my/our agreeing to the rules, signing this Submission/ Release form and submitting my/our screenplay to you, I/we agree that the competition organizers will review and evaluate my/our screenplay and may freely share their evaluations with each other to ensure consistency of the judging process and to publicize the winning entries.

I/we understand that the organizers may have access to, may create, or have created literary materials and ideas which may be similar or identical to those found in my/our screenplay in theme, characters, plot, format or other respects. I/we agree that I/we will not be entitled to any compensation because of the use of any such material that may have been independently created by the SWN, its committee members or competition organizers.

If my/our submission is not original in concept or has any caveats or other encumbrances, I/we agree to hold harmless and free of liability the SWN, its officers, members and competition personnel in the event of any legal action arising from entering the competition, including attorney's fees and expenses.

I/we agree that if a sale/option results from entering this competition, the SWN has my/our permission to publicize this fact at its discretion.

I/we understand that to the best of my/our knowledge all information included in my/our submission is true and correct and not misleading in any way.

By signing this form, I/we declare we have read and understood the rules of the competition and agree to them in their entirety. If you don't have an electronic version of your signature, type your full name in the signature field instead.
